

BIG COAL PILE AT SAMSON BURNING

Citizens Complain of Fumes Covering City—Efforts Made to Extinguish

To lessen the nuisance of the gaseous fumes coming from the burning coal piles in the storage yard of the Samson Tractor Co., electric cranes are at work spreading the coal. Water pipes have been laid to extinguish the surface fire.

The fire in one pile at the southwestern corner of the yard has already been put out. Two piles, one in the center of the yard and one adjoining the heating plant are still burning. In these piles there are several thousand tons of bituminous coal.

"It is not the amount of coal that is being burned, that's the important thing," said J. A. Crate today, "because the piles are very slow burning. The fumes from the fire are annoying. We are trying to do away with the nuisance. The cause of the fire is spontaneous combustion. The heat from the pressure of the piles ignites the coal and the smoldering fire gives off the gaseous small."

Residents of the fourth ward who have been greatly troubled by the fumes appealed to Mayor Thomas Welsh, who investigated the nuisance yesterday with J. A. Crate. Today he stated that every effort was being made to put out the fires.

THE JANESVILLE DAILY GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1920.

GAS HEAT UNIT TO BE LOWERED HERE

Exact Date of Cutting Down
B. T. U. Not Yet Known by Wortendyke.

When the gas standard of Janesville will be lower, as allowed by a decision of the railroad commission on Sept. 2, is still undecided, according to a statement made by W. H. Wortendyke, president of the New Gas Light company.

The gas company can as yet make no statement as to when the Janesville standard will be lowered, because we ourselves do not know," Mr. Wortendyke said.

The railroad commission allows the gas companies in Wisconsin to lower the average standard of 600 B. T. U. with a minimum of 550 B. T. U. to a minimum of not less than 520 B. T. U.

Optional With Commission

The gas company, however, retains the right to fix a higher standard for any company when the conditions warrant the change, and requires all gas companies to file a monthly report with the commission as to whether the standard may be increased, whether or not there are any appreciable difference in the cost of manufacture.

The different gas companies in June 2 applied to the commission for the reduction of heat units in the gas as a necessary step in the conservation of coal and oil. There were hearings on Sept. 16 and Aug. 3, when it was shown by the companies that the coal the gas companies had been of late compelled to use had been of such a poor sort that it had been impossible for the companies to maintain the heat units formerly set by the commission.

Disadvantages Slight

In its opinion the commission states that it is necessary because of the quality of the coal and oil that the standard be reduced, but that the disadvantages to the consumer when the burners are properly adjusted will be very slight.

POTATO CROP IS BADLY DAMAGED

Wisconsin's potato crop has been severely damaged by the long drought in the early weeks of August and insects, according to the report of Joseph A. Becker of the Wisconsin cooperative crop reporting service.

Condition of the crop on September 1 was 67 percent normal compared with 84 percent on August 1. The largest decrease was in the Barron-Eau Claire district, where the lack of rain was particularly injurious. Commercial acreage is estimated at one percent more than last year and commercial production at 88 percent normal.

Factors contributing to the subnormal condition are reported as adverse weather, 20 percent; insect damage, 4.2 percent; inferior seed, 3.6 percent; and plant disease damage, 2.5 percent.

7 WANT TO JOIN
FIRE POLICE ASSN.

Seven applications for membership will be considered at the annual meeting of the Janesville Fire Police on Sept. 15 at 8 o'clock at the east side fire station. Reports of committees and discussion of plans to put the organization back on an active basis will be taken up.

Purpose of the organization is to supplement both the regular fire and police departments by providing specially recognized citizens whose duty it is to stop fires by spreading rubber blankets over stocks and furniture and perform the work of traffic policemen.

10 PER CENT FEWER HOGS FOR MARKET

Wisconsin farmers will fatten for market only 90 percent as many hogs as last year," states Joseph A. Becker, president of the Wisconsin Cooperative crop reporting service in his September report.

This is due to the uncertain market here for the past year. In addition the spring hog crop was below normal. Litters average 5.4 pigs per sow as compared with 6.0 pigs a year ago. It is estimated that 1,887,000 hogs will be fattened for market compared to 1,977,000 last year and 1,700,000 in 1918.

The report states that the wool production for Wisconsin is about the same as it was last year. There was an increase of four percent in the number of hogs over 1918, while the average weight of fleece was less in 1919. Total production is 3,380,000 pounds compared to 2,810,000 in 1918.

The wool production for the United States is estimated at 258,923,000 pounds, 97.6 percent of the 1919 crop of 265,450,000 pounds.

SCHOOL BATTLE ON IN TOWN OF TURTLE

For the purpose of considering consolidation of schools in the town of Turtle, the county committee on common schools is meeting this afternoon in the town hall of Turtle. When the town board rejected a similar consolidation of certain districts, the case was immediately appealed to the county committee. Supt. O. D. Antisell, who is a member of the county committee, said today that whatever the decision of the committee is, it will be appealed to State Dept. C. P. Cary by the dissatisfied side.

The Decline of Oratory

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—Despite the facts that one of our esteemed presidential candidates has been swinging round the circle with his mouth open and a continuous stream of invective and eloquence issuing therefrom; that the other has been standing on his front porch in the same attitude and engaged in the same occupation; that the woods are full of stump speakers; that you can get a man in any town of a thousand or more inhabitants to speak on any subject whatsoever at any desired length; that when the United States went to war it put through a draft law to get men to fight, but produced an army of volunteer orators by the mere raising of a governmental finger; that there will be eleven thousand two hundred fifty-six banquets given in the United States this year, and that from three to seven orations will be delivered at each without the aid of any other stimulant than such as the speaker can bring inside his person; and that these orations will have to be listened to without the aid of any anaesthetic stronger than tobacco.

Despite these and many other facts of a similar nature which might be cited, it may be stated with conservative accuracy that the great art of oratory, which traditionally makes men laugh and cry, decides the destinies of nations and sells life insurance and real estate, is in for a decline. What you naturally inquire is, the evidence of this decline? It is hard to get a cook or laundress or a man to mow the lawn. The crops rot for lack of men to harvest them. But it is still easy to get a man to speak, and it is still hard to get him to stop speaking.

A POPULAR AND WELL EARNED PROMOTION.

In the selection of William Bladon as president of the Merchants and Savings bank at a meeting of the directors held September 13, that financial institution has elevated to the highest position in its management a man who has been identified with the banking business in Janesville for a great many years. He has watched the Merchants and Savings bank grow from a small institution to one of the representative banks of the community.

His first connection dates back to May, 1883, and prior to that time and afterwards, he had an opportunity of first hand experience in other commercial enterprises which gave him a broad view of the business situation of the city.

Mr. Bladon came to Janesville forty-nine years ago and was variously identified with the former wholesale saddlery firm of Bassett, Bladon and Echlin, as well as later with the Gazette Printing Company. He has many friends in this part of southern Wisconsin who are congratulating him upon his unbroken years of service and the final attainment of the presidency of the bank with which he has been so long connected.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT MAINE.

Eighty years ago Maine held an election. Governor Kent was the whig candidate for reelection. William Henry Harrison was the whig candidate for president. Maine held its state election in September, as now, Ohio voted in October. These states were pivotal. Maine's vote would tell the story of public approval or disapproval of candidates and policies. So when Maine went overwhelmingly for Governor Kent, the news went into the ineffaceable archives of politics with verse beginning:

Have you heard the news from Maine?
How she went, hell bent
For Governor Kent?

Oh, that's the news from Maine.

Harrison was elected in November. Through all the 80 years since, Maine has been a political barometer. When the republican vote has been large, as it was on Tuesday, there has never been a failure to carry the nation in the November election for the republican national candidates. It is therefore with a cheerful mind that the friends of Harding and Coolidge look upon the largest majority ever cast for a republican in Maine. "Hell bent," certainly expresses the case of Tuesday.

It seems that these are bad days for the Wilson administration and the news that the president is anxious to get out and make a few speeches in an effort to save something from the wreck is not at all surprising.

MR. COX'S DEAD ISSUE.

Prohibition is a dead issue says Governor Cox—as dead as slavery. That was so until the issue was raised in almost every state by the men who are giving Cox their earnest support. What the people of the United States want to know is whether Mr. Cox is for the prohibition of the liquor traffic as defined by the statutes, or with such changes and reservations as to nullify it, demanded by the liquor interests.

It would also be in order to ask Mr. Cox why the liquor dealer's associations of the different states are still in existence and why they are sending out literature and asking for funds "to get squarely behind Cox."

It is certain they would not do this if Mr. Bryan were the democratic candidate. They must be pretty sure of their man to send out such an appeal for Cox as the New Jersey liquor men are doing. Unfortunately for Gov. Cox, these persons have made the liquor question an issue and placed Cox in the center of it.

What may we gently ask, without irritating the delicate ears of anyone in particular, with the lightness of our tread, will be done to the gentleman who so kindly assuaged the thirst of the man who wanted Hostetter's bitters at 25 cents a drink? Of course that liquor, so potent that it had a light in every glass of the six, was not taken for the alcohol, but purely as a medicine, and the man who sold it was acting as a good Samaritan. Shall we give the Samaritan a vote of thanks, a medal, a silver trophy, a police badge, a nurse's diploma, a membership in the Human Society, six months in jail, or an engraved certificate of character from the Purity League? He is entitled to something, and that is not at all likely to arrive from any of the offices where evil is an anathema and law is only law, not Justice.

There are some important passages which might be read with great educational results in the large and formidable statutes of Wisconsin, for instance section 1553, entitled "Excise laws; enforcement by local officers; penalty." So far as can be learned that section was not repealed by the eighteenth amendment.

About the most unpopular thing these days is a campaign button. No one wears 'em. Is that a cause or an effect of the woman in politics? You cannot put a candidate's picture on hooks and eyes.

Mr. Ed. Moore, having brought up his heavy artillery, it was found that he had neither powder nor shot. In this he was very typical of the democratic war administration.

No matter what happens to Tennessee in the suffrage contest in the courts, the suffrage amend-

JUST FOLKS

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

OLD SEPTEMBER.

Old September pleases me.
Like the way he tints a tree,
Like the way he comes to call
With some trinket for us all,
In the pockets of his vest.
Bringin' things we like the best.
Apples, peaches, grapes, and plums
Lond the table when he comes,
An' for something extra fine,
Grapes are ready on the vine.

Old September doesn't show
Wrinkled face or frosty snow.
He is like the men who hide
With a glad outside.
Coverin' up his lines of care
With a smile that's always fair,
Joinin' every song that's sung,
Just as youthful as the young.
Ready for a round of fun
On the task that's to be done.

Old September never grieves
'Bout the fallin' of the leaves,
Never grumbled or complained.
'Bout his numerous aches and pains.
Just goes traipin' round the place
With a smile upon his face.
Smashin' colors here an' there
Till there's beauty everywhere.
Scatterin' happiness an' cheer
Till the whole world's glad he's here.

When old age gets hold of 'em,
Like September, I would be
Want to walk up with the throng,
An' go marchin' right along.
Want to putten round the place
With a smile upon my face.
Sharin' in the workin' fun, I
Just as you as anyone else.
When old age gets hold of 'em,
Like September, I would be.

WAS HE A REAL ESTATE DEALER, TOO?

"Mrs. Pearl Smith, formerly a waitress in the company's restaurant, testified that last September a man cool pursued her, carrying five boxes by the tail.—Albion (Ga.) Daily Herald."

"Well done, thou good and faithful servant," means something nowadays, for when a man dies he has been well done by about every protegee in the country.

If you are going on a trip don't mark your trunk, "Handle With Care." The enforcement officers are looking for such trunks.

Who's Who Today

DR. MATTI HELENUS-SEPPALA.

A distinguished visitor from Finland is in our midst. He is Dr. Matti Helenus-Seppala, Europe's leading prohibitionist, and he has come all the way from Helsinki to speak at the International Congress Against Alcoholism, shortly to convene in Washington, D. C.

Temperance Matti, as he is familiarly called, is the man who made Finland dry. As prohibition was definitely adopted, the government thought that the execution of the law of June, 1919, would be best placed in his hands. He was accordingly appointed chief of the temperance division at the central ministry, and has since become the terror of Finnish moonshiners.

Dr. Matti Helenus-Seppala was born in Finland in 1870. He studied statistics and political economy and published for the doctor-degree a renowned book on the alcohol question, which has been translated into several languages. He became secretary of the Finnish Society of the Friends of Abstinence, then chief of the Finnish Temperance bureau.

Dr. Helenus is a versatile writer and among his many volumes is a book on prohibition which he studied in the dry states in America, which he studied in the dry states about fifteen years ago. He is the only prohibition enforcement commissioner in the world outside of the United States.

And yet it may be that this faintly threatened decline of a great national art and pastime is not without its compensations. Psychologists tell us that as a method of considering important questions, public speaking to large crowds has a fundamental weakness. This weakness is that the orator has an overwhelming tendency to harm the party that is made the victim of this meddlesome practice. This practice need not become so general, moreover, than it is time to stop it by the enforcement of necessary legislation. In this, the primary law is given, the additional safeguard, the time is coming when the people will decide to abolish the entire system and go back to the old caucus and convention plan, which at least permits the members of each party to choose their own party nominees, also to control party platforms and management, without outside help or interference.

Col. Scaman on "Expediency."

Milwaukee Sentinel: "I have not received the telegram from Mr. Wilson," said Col. Scaman, "but I believe that I understand the properties in both victory and defeat. I question the expediency, the wisdom and the propriety of a conference at this time; based on a call signed by defeated candidates."

Rhinelander News (Rep.): "In the coming election the Daily News will neither support nor ask its friends to support him. We do not believe that with his past record as a party man he deserves the support of the two hundred thousand republican women and men of Wisconsin."

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Sept. 15, 1880.—Chief Engineer Young's report for the fire department for the last three months shows that they have been called out seven times, the causes for alarms being lamp explosion, one; sparks from locomotive, two; sugar boiling over, one; children playing with matches, one, and two others.

THIRTY-ONE YEARS AGO

Sept. 15, 1889.—Large crowds from Janesville will attend the Walworth county fair which is to be held at Elkhorn, Sept. 18-21.—John O'berg, who has charge of the Norcross lighting plant at Fulton, received a bad electrical shock a few days ago when he accidentally touched a wire.

TEN YEARS AGO

Sept. 15, 1910.—John Marquette was brought into the municipal court this morning, charged with catching fish by means of set-lines. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Sept. 23.—Impressive funeral services for George Viney, the civil war veteran, and old resident of Janesville, were held this morning.

BABY SPECIALIST CONDEMNS CASTOR OIL

In a medical journal to say about as much as the baby has covered in half a year, the baby ignore his father's convulsions and put in that time-honored wheeze about the "single dose of castor oil." I ask a rhetorical question for I know, however, that readers of this journal, especially mothers, none of the authors of which uses castor oil, in his own practice today. Old stuff does hard. After you had done your best to kill the colonel and castor oil, fetch, your own young, hopeful hastens forward, lifts his head and gives it another mouthful of castor oil. It seems deplorable that your son, of all people, should help to perpetuate the old superstition.

There, now, what'd you say to that, sir? I demand to know.

"Well, sir, I don't know what you are talking about."

"Of course it was a mistake. Did you shake and agree never again to smear your column with castor oil."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Hair and Energy.

Is it possible for a girl's or woman's hair to sap energy? My hair has grown luxuriantly and I dreadfully tired a great deal of the time. I have been to the hairdresser, but he may take her strength. Please explain that.

ANSWER.—It is not possible for the hair to sap energy.

Great works of the Diseases of Infancy by the eminent pediatric professors of the country, all the latest editions.

They all give it, excepting, perhaps, Dr. Abt of Chicago. Abt aptly observes that small doses of castor oil almost invariably cause a loss of blood in the bowel, at least in therapeutic quantities. But Abt, out of every one of the other great baby men gives castor oil. So I just....

"Young man," I interrupted severely, "listen to this letter I have received from a New York hair specialist. When I was a boy baby specialist, when all others relapse into apathy, I demand an explanation."

It is in order to be circumcised? Will it improve the health of a boy 22 years old to have it done? Is it even safe to do it? Are there any ill effects or risks from the operation? Must ether or chloroform be given?

ANSWER.—The family physician should be consulted about such a matter. If circumcision is for any reason necessary it may improve health. In my opinion, however, it is only when the condition prevents cleanliness or obstructs the flow of urine that it is often done at a moment's notice. As I have said repeatedly, there is never excuse or justification for cutting a woman's hair and still being of the woman or her hair are concerned.

"Permit me to thank your baby for the 25th birthday in the 'Autobiography of a Baby' entitled 'The Control of Diarrhea.' The baby has shamed up in a remarkably short space and in a manner hard to misunderstand, most of what we know about the summer diarrheas of infants. I recently took many pages of the book and found it most interesting.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 15, 1920.

Good luck attends this day, according to astrology. Jupiter and Uranus dominate with kindly sway.

Clear vision and foresight should make all business activities under this rule extraordinarily profitable.

There is a promising direction for new ventures and for the reorganization of old enterprises.

Many changes in methods of carrying on large enterprises seem to be indicated, since there is the forecast of new international alliances of combinations.

Good luck should attend the meeting of strangers or the establishment of new connections during this planetary rule.

Romantic, fairly well-aspected the day when the stars presage a quickening of interest on the part of men of large affairs. Thus it should be favorable for women who are ambitious to marry wealth.

There is a reading of the stars that seems to indicate great military and naval movements on the part of Great Britain. This is forecast in the aspects attending the lunation of November.

The stars held to affect the nervous system most directly seem to presage an increase of diseases of the mind and for that reason the medical and dental care to maintain control of the temper and a continued optimism.

New responsibilities again are predicted for women, who will meet many serious problems in the spring.

This day's aspects should be favorable for the theater and especially profitable for picture houses.

The vogue of the new actress who represents the intellectual and progressive ideals of the stage is again prognosticated.

Persons whose birthday it is have the augury of a prosperous year in which added interests increase the financial value.

Children born on this day will be generally lucky all through life, if they follow the paths indicated by the stars. They are likely

BELoit PASSES BUCK; PERRING TURNS IT DOWN

And now Beloit passes the buck and crawls. They stay in the Gateway city between the Fairies and the Samsons, up to Manager George Perring. Janesville fans and lovers of clean sport will, however, be lined up back of Perring. A statement given out Tuesday and published in the Beloit Daily News goes this way:

"Continuation of athletic relations between Beloit Fairies and Janesville Samsons tests entirely with Manager George Perring. It was stated by F. M. A. A. officials here today, 'It's up to George,' and has been since the original trouble. At a conference between Perring and Manager Cobb and Dennis McCarney, Perring was told that the Beloit team would agree to the other two baseball games, slated for September 25 and 26, provided Perring agreed to play the rest of the protest. Beloit's game was the last of the practice season for the fall gridiron campaign.

Reports from universities in the "Big Ten" indicated the largest squads in years responded to the call. The teams with the possible exception of Northwestern and Purdue, will be made up of veteran players of known ability.

Illinois Hus Vets
Illinois, winner of the 1919 championship, will start the season well fortified with veterans. John Dopier, all-around center, will captain the eleven. Ohio state, runner-up in the championship race, will build its 1920 machine around "Pete" Stinchcomb, who the coaches regard as a second "Chick" Harlan. Stinchcomb and his team will be the best in the west last season.

Town and Minnesota promise to develop formidable teams. The Minnesota prospects appear the brightest in years and a heavy and fast team. It was decided that the game to be decided by a coin of coin. If Perring calls "sue his way clear" to such an argument, the cancellation is final, it was said here.

Given No Consideration.
The proposition to play off the last four innings of the Beloit game was advanced by the Sunday night conference in Beloit by the Beloit men, these said Perring this morning. So little attention was paid to such a suggestion, he stated, that it was talked about for only 10 minutes of the three hour conference.

Not to be Considered.
When it was brought up Perring said he could not consider it first, because the Samsons were not at fault and therefore were not called upon to make concessions; and, secondly, because it would be adding insult to the injury already caused the Rock county fair officials.

The action on an exhibition affair at Evansville. "To play it out" on the grounds of either Janesville or Beloit would be nothing other than giving the fans of either of these cities the most interesting part of the season and adding money to the pockets of Janesville and Beloit that rightly would belong to the Rock county fair.

"It looks to me as if the Fairbanks-Morse people are trying to place the weight of the whole matter on me," said Perring.

Arranged With Caso.
It was stated today that after the telegram announcing the cancellation of the Sept. 25 and 26 games by Beloit was received, Perring, as soon as he secured a verification from Beloit officials by telephone, with the Case Manufacturing Co. of Racine to day have on those two days. This was done so as not to disappoint the Janesville fans and in the belief that Beloit's action was final. It was done before publication of the cancellation news was made in Beloit.

Beloit Had the Score.
At the Sunday night meeting Manager Caso Club was present at the conference, as was Dennis McCarthy, president of the Fairbanks-Morse Athletic association. It was they who advanced the play-off idea. It is also pointed out that neither of them signed the telegram announcing cancellation.

Beloit Stated Today
that he will present a statement of facts to the press of Beloit with a request of publication so that the Beloit fans may get the real dope on the situation. No real news of the conditions has yet been published in the line city. Whether the statement is published or not, the matter will then be considered closed.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Football, the most popular of college sports, will come into its own in the Western Conference today with opening of the practice season for the fall gridiron campaign.

FEW DUCKS FOR HUNTER; SEASON OPENS THURSDAY

shows that much of the water is gone. This is said to be due to the extreme dry spells of the summer, as a result the canvasback will have to take to the lake.

While there are numerous other lakes in this vicinity they are not popular with the birds for the reason that they are too deep. This is especially true of Delavan, where the only places the birds congregate are in the inlet. This makes it better for hunting, because the crowds for hunting, because the water is similarly fixed, the water there also being too deep.

Yet, with all these things, the hunter, if he be a true sportsman, will nevertheless have his fun. While it is not all of the bird, and the fun of hitting, that rules the hunter yet that close touch with nature is half of the joy.

Over 400 hunting licenses have already been taken out this season. Although the official time is Sept. 15 the season is not over yet. The birds, however, are very few wild geese, wild ducks, snipe and mallards, and are not yet in those parts.

Koshkonong, a widening of the Rock river, about 10 miles north of Janesville, has always been the paradise for the duck hunter. The natives and others who feel the call of the wild, early, and have made a few visits to the feeding grounds, report an appreciable absence of wild birds this year.

Last year at this time, when the weather was cool and brisk, multitudes of the birds were already at the lake when the first day of the hunting season came round. This season, not more than a half dozen flocks have been seen around the waters and marsh land in this vicinity. Warm weather of the past summer and September are the only reasons that the old-timers can advance. But hunters generally have patience and are told to utilize it to the fullest extent this season and in the end they will be rewarded with plenty of bags.

It is an axiom of wild life, that migratory birds always come back. If they have been making a habitation in certain body of water the return the next year. Thus the hunters are given plenty of shooting when the weather gets cooler, especially the nights. The old-timers predict that when the birds do start to come, there will be wonderfully large flocks.

General Feeding Place.
Koshkonong, moreover, is a natural feeding ground that is hard to beat anywhere in southern Wisconsin. It is shallow, not over five to six feet deep in any part, and just the kind of place for the birds to gather. It is covered with an ongoing growth that ducks and geese relish in by diving down for the food.

There is one disadvantage at Koshkonong this year. That is the absence of wild rice and acorns. Last year the rice grew in the marshes, that the hunter was compelled to cut his way through. This season it is gone, where, no one knows. It may be that the long, hard winter of last year killed the seed or that the ice forced the birds to go down the river. However, this is not considered a handicap.

The marshy land in the vicinity of Koshkonong affords great pot holes with lots of rushes and weeds in which the hunter must wade down and wade up hills. Mallards, especially, seek such locations.

SPEED BOAT COVERS 71 MILES AN HOUR

Detroit, Sept. 15.—Establishing a new world's record of 71.43 miles an hour, Gar Wood with his Miss America, of the Detroit Yacht club won the gold challenge cup of the American Powerboat association.

The one mile speed trials for the Lake George Cup were brought to a close here to-day. The contestants, including Gar Wood's Miss America, was allowed six trials. The course was straightforward, three trials up-stream and three down, the best average time for the 6 trials determining the winner.

The Brooklyn Nationals suffered their first defeat in 11 games on Tuesday when Chicago batted Cadore hard, but Cincinnati and New York failed to take advantage of the situation. The Reds had the lead in Philadelphia and New York fell before St. Louis. Tyler of the Cubs held the hard-hitting Superbas to three hits.

The Yankees won their fifth straight from Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago, going 6-0. The Indians were shut out by the White Sox and the White Sox could do little with Acosta of Washington.

Babe Ruth, the Yankee slugger, added another mark to his credit on Tuesday when he scored twice and brought his season's total of runs to 147, equalling the American league record set by Ty Cobb in 1911. The National league record is 136 made by Hamilton of Philadelphia in 1914.
